Unicorn

For this month I choose the unicorn. I will cover some of the “mythological” animals every few months. I wanted to start with the purest of all creatures. They are shy and elusive, and have never been captured on camera or video.

Unicorns are sometimes depicted as a white horse with a single horn on the forehead. The original images of unicorns depict a creature similar to a horse, but with cloven hooves (like that of cattle or deer), a lion tail, and a goat’s beard. They are usually always white, because they represent all that is pure and innocent.

In Harry Potter, unicorns are seen as mysterious creatures. To kill one and drink the blood will give one life, but a cursed life it will be.

To dream of unicorns means there will be happy times and good fortune in your near future.

To see a unicorn in you tea leaves could denote a secrete relationship or good luck.

Unicorns also warn against having unpure thoughts or feelings. We must use our imagination to dream up creative ways to deal with problems and obstacles that stand in our way.

You must have ways to balance your feelings and knowledge. It is good to be passionate about something, but you should refrain from being obsessive about something. Just because you know about something, doesn’t mean you need to push your knowledge on others because they are not informed about things.

So the unicorn teaches us to be pure, innocent, imaginative, yet knowledgeable. You need to look inward and explore your inner self. Take time for yourself and calm your thoughts.
